Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Memorandum of Extracts From Papers on the Permanent Settlement of Bengal The Revenue levied upon the zemindar under the Mahomedan rule was a tax upon the rent of land. The British Government have also regarded it as such, as the discussions contained in the Land Revenue Papers, both ante- and-post Settlement Papers, abundantly testify. In fact, it could not be otherwise, inasmuch as nine-tenths of the gross rental constituted the revenue to the State, which was equivalent to a tax of 90 per cent, on the income of the landholders. This tax has been pronounced repeatedly to be exorbitant, so much so that strong doubts were entertained at the time of the Settlement as to the zemindars being able to bear this heavy burden. Mr. Shore in a minute, dated the 21st December 1789, wrote: - 4. It will, I believe, be admitted that equality in taxation is of great importance; and, in justice, all the subjects of a State should contribute, as nearly as possible, in proportion to the income which they enjoy under...
