Not illustrated. 1921 Excerpt: .want to introduce you now to Mrs. Betten, for she is one of the first people who will greet you at Ithaca, and she will be among the last to say good-bye for she is the General Mistress of Ceremonies at Cornell. When anyone who knows Mrs. Betten learns that she is General Chairman, they say: Oh, well, everything will be done if she says it will. And we who are just beginning to know her through letters about Convention plans, believe it is true, and we are congratulating all of you Convention-goers on the very complete local arrangements in store for you. Mrs. Betten is closely connected with all university interests and if there is any building or piece of machinery on the whole campus we suggest wanting--she arranges for us to have it. Mrs. Betten and. Alpha Beta chapter seem to be getting a great deal of pleasure out of all of this preparation, and we know from experience that they have no small task. They all want to plan enough excursions and fascinating parties to keep us happy for two weeks, and while we have had to reject any number of tempting diversions suggested, it really gives us a thrill to have our hostesses so anxious to entertain us. One of the delightful features of any Delta Convention is watching the constant procession of events, with little or no machinery in sight. When you meet Mrs. Betten you may wonder how she could...
